

Allowing cellphone use on airplanes would be a modern-day form of torture. There would be no way to escape it, no way to walk away from others' conversations - you would have NO choice but to sit there and listen to hundreds of people talking noisily. I am all for freedom of speech but not when I am locked in an aluminum tube with that many people. An airplane is NOT the place for this. If someone needs to stay in touch that desperately let's give them internet access instead. It would be a quiet and unobtrusive solution. Allowing cellphone use on planes would be a complete nightmare. PLEASE don't let it happen. Thank you!
